Therapist / Florissa

M.A., Northern Illinois University

Bachelor of Arts, Miami University

Andrew Flannery, M.A., is a graduate student in Northern Illinois University's Clinical Psychology Ph.D. program. He graduated from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, with a bachelor's degree in psychology. He received his master's degree in clinical psychology from Northern Illinois University in the fall of 2017. Andrew previously worked as a mental health counselor at Presence St. Joseph Hospital in Elgin, IL. He has experience conducting assessments and therapy with children, adults, and families at the Psychological Services Center at NIU. He recently worked as a behavioral consultant at Opportunity House, Inc. in Sycamore, IL, where he provided therapy and assessment services for adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities. In the summers of 2017 and 2018, Andrew served as a counselor for the Adventure Camp program of Advanced Therapeutic Services, an intensive therapeutic camp for children and adolescents with Selective Mutism. His clinical practicum experiences also included conducting comprehensive multidisciplinary psychodiagnostic assessments and providing individual and group therapy for children and adolescents at Florissa. In addition to his continued work as a clinical intern with Florissa, Andrew currently works as a practicum clinician at Susan Myket, Ph.D., & Associates, a private family psychology practice in Naperville, IL.

Andrew's assessment and treatment approach is founded within a cognitive-behavioral framework. He has experience diagnosing and treating a range of disorders in childhood, adolescence, and adulthood, including depression, anxiety disorders, bipolar I and II disorder, autism spectrum disorder, anger, attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder, behavior disorders, learning and developmental disorders, intellectual disability, oppositional defiant disorder, schizophrenia, schizoaffective disorder, and schizoid personality disorder.

With a passion to work with children, adolescents, and families in clinical settings, Andrew is thrilled to have the special opportunity of working as a clinical intern with Florissa Pediatric Development Center, where he is certain that he will continue to grow as a person and as a clinician. Andrew is currently developing his doctoral dissertation. Broadly, the project will utilize a clinical sample of adolescents and examine their perceptions of their parents' coparenting practices and the manner in which these appraisals influence their psychological and behavioral functioning. In his free time, Andrew enjoys watching sports, cooking, and exploring Chicago with his fiancée and friends.
